

More May Be Fired To Clean Up Frauds In Revenue Service

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman's firing of Assistant Attorney General Theron Lamar Caudle appeared today to be the forerunner of wide-scale charges involving justice department tax fraud prosecutions.

"This is just the beginning," said Rep. King (D-Calif.), chairman of the House Ways and Means subcommittee, which has been unearthing corruption and misconduct in the internal revenue service.

Heart Is Broken

The President late yesterday fired Caudle as the government's chief prosecutor of tax frauds less than 48 hours after the committee passed along to Mr. Truman information it said it had dug up on Caudle's activities.

Mr. Truman announced Caudle resigned by request because he had "engaged in outside activities" inconsistent with his position as head of the justice department tax division. Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told reporters that "as far as the President knows nothing done has been illegal."

Po River Rises; 150,000 Flee

ROVIGO, Italy — (AP) — Some 15,000 persons were reported fleeing their homes in the Po delta today as Italy's worst floods in half a century continued their death-dealing rampage that already has cost at least 94 lives.

By train, truck and boat, villagers and city dwellers hurried to the safety of the northern countryside.

They fled from this provincial capital of 40,000 shortly after midnight as torrents of water began surging over the streets. Thousands of others were pulling out of some 40 villages which were either engulfed by the flood waters or in immediate danger of inundation.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi took part in the final decision asking Rovigo residents to evacuate the city.

The premier, who stayed in Padua last night, spent all yesterday watching volunteers provide meals and shelter for thousands of refugees pouring in from the stricken area.

Vishinsky Haw-Haws At UN Peace Proposal May Get Him In Bad

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The state department radio is telling listeners behind the Iron Curtain that Soviet foreign minister Vishinsky laughed on the wrong side of his face when he derided the west's disarmament proposals in the United Nations.

The broadcasts suggested Vishinsky may be in Kremlin disfavor for his speech replying to the U. S.-led plan.

The voice of America said the Kremlin apparently didn't get the joke since Moscow's Pravda and Czechoslovakia's rude pravo — both top drawer "policy" papers — left out of their accounts of Vishinsky's recent U. N. address his remarks that the plan had kept him awake nights—laughing.

Michigan State Police Receive $325,000 Raise

Other Employees Ask Living Cost Boost

LANSING — (AP) — State police today were working for wages $25 to $120 a month higher than previously and the state civil service commission was considering demands for increases for the rest of the state employees.

The commission approved the state police boost effective immediately at a meeting yesterday. It will cost the state $325,000 a year.

Arthur G. Rasch, state personnel director, said "it should be understood" that the state police will also benefit from any future cost of living increase which comes out of general employee demands for more money.

Demands Detailed

The most detailed general demand was made by Allen M. Roche, Michigan president of the AFL state, county and municipal employees.

He asked a $50 across the board increase plus a cost of living adjustment for all state employees. This would bring the minimum state salary from $2,040 to more than $2,600.

Time and a half for all time over 40 hours a week and a five per cent longevity increase for every three years of service up to 30 years also were demanded by Roche.

He proposed an escalator clause to gear future adjustments automatically to the commodity index and a special $15 a month increase to institutional workers to compensate for increased charges made by the institutions for meals and other maintenance.

He said he had made no estimate.

Attack By Allies Gains Two Miles In Central Korea

By SAM SUMMERLIN

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — An Allied division supported by tanks and planes today smashed ahead nearly two miles in a surprise attack along a nine-mile front in Central Korea.

"We caught the enemy by complete surprise," an Allied officer said. "They had no idea we were coming."

Hit In Soft Spot

The U. N. command division jumped off shortly before dawn in a limited objective attack southeast of Kumsong, former Red supply base 30 miles north of parallel 38.

Allied infantrymen had knocked off 11 hills by early afternoon.

On U. N. battalion crossed the Pukhan river in assault boats in pre-dawn darkness and hit the unsuspecting Chinese in a soft spot.

In the west, U. N. infantrymen won back an advance position lost to Reds Friday northwest of Chorwon, 20 miles north of parallel 38. Allied troops attacked under cover of an artillery barrage shortly before dawn.

Communists who had pushed United Nations defenders out of one hill position early Friday pulled back after putting up only light resistance, the Eighth Army reported. Presumably the Reds still hold two other hill positions seized in the Friday attack.

Armistice Within 30 Days New Peace Goal In Korea

Korea Atrocity Story Verified By Gen. Ridgway

Brutality Of Chinese Reds No Surprise

By DON HUTCH

TOKYO — (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today verified the Communist atrocity killings of United Nations soldier captives in Korea and declared "the shocking impact of the brutality which has been revealed should have been no surprise to the American people."

But the supreme Allied commander in his first comment on the sensational story that shocked the world Wednesday expressed regret over the way it was disclosed.

Anquish For Relatives

Ridgway, in a statement, said all known deaths already had been reported to next of kin and that the report had caused needless anguish among relatives of those soldiers still listed as missing.

On Wednesday Col. James M. Hanley, head of the War Crimes section of the U. S. Eighth Army, disclosed in Korea that nearly 6,000 Allied soldiers—5,500 of them Americans—had been slaughtered by their Communist captives since the outbreak of the war.

Hanley was brought to Tokyo today by Col. George Patrick Welch, Ridgway's public relations officer, presumably to answer any questions while the Ridgway statement was being prepared.

Feeling Makes Charges

Shortly before Ridgway spoke out, Peiping radio entered a blanket denial of Hanley's report. It maintained that United Nations prisoners of war were treated well "despite difficult conditions."

Then the Chinese Communist radio countered with its own charges that "thousands and tens of thousands" of Chinese and North Korean Red soldiers "who fell into the hands of the United Nations forces have been massacred."

"This ran counter to all reports of United Nations treatment of prisoners. Hanley in his report said all Red prisoners were well cared for. Only yesterday AP photographer Robert H. Schutz visited a large war prisoner camp and said he found the Communist captives well fed and well clothed."

Ridgway's statement emphasized that there had been no intention of withholding the atrocity figures.

Not Proper Time

"It had been concluded some months ago, that at an appropriate time when the accumulated evidence warranted and when due coordination had been effected with the proper authorities in Washington, this evidence should be made public," Ridgway said.

"That this coordination was not properly effected at the time of this release is of the utmost regret to this headquarters."

There was no immediate indication what Ridgway's explanation would have on an angered world.

Some headquarters sources here believe public opinion might force a break in the Korean war, one way or another.

Warren Suggests Platform For GOP

By MORRIS LANDSBERG

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — (AP) — This is what Governor Earl Warren believes the Republican party should stand for—

Honesty in government; a bipartisan foreign policy; support of the United Nations; medical care on reasonable terms; slum clearance, and "the right of every segment of our society to a measure of security."

"We cannot stand still," the California governor declared in a radio speech last night. It was the opening talk of his campaign for the 1952 GOP presidential nomination.

"The Republican party has never been a radical party," he told delegates to the GOP state convention and a national radio audience. "It must not—as it values its life—become a party of reaction."

The Republicans, he said, must pledge the voter rugged honesty in every phase of government.

"We must clean out the chiseling, the favoritism and the dishonesty that is shocking the public today," he insisted.

Warren deplored use of Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans to "bail out shaky enterprises" and to finance gambling houses. The RFC has been criticized for putting up money for a Reno hotel-casino.

BARBARISM STORY SHOCKS U. S. — Figures released by Col. James Hanley (above), judge advocate of the 8th Army, regarding Chinese Red atrocities in Korea, were verified today by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander. Hanley's statement charged the Reds with murdering 5,500 American war prisoners. (NEA Telephoto)

Royal Oak Hunter, 29, Killed Guarding Deer; Gunfire Toll Up To 5

(By The Associated Press)

A hunter who apparently was slain for possession of a deer headed a toll of five dead of gunfire in Michigan's deer hunting season today.

As the third day of shooting got underway, the state counted another five hunters dead of heart attack and at least 22 wounded.

Shot In Back

A full state police investigation was started into the death of Donald Bethuy, 29, of Royal Oak. He was found dead Friday, a bullet hole in his back, in a heavily wooded section five miles south of Wakefield.

Another hunter, John Herman, 69, of Route 1, New Boston, was killed Friday morning by a shot from the gun of his brother-in-law, Christian German of Lapeer.

German said he was dragging a deer and his rifle was caught by a branch. It discharged, striking Herman.

Dr. James Schellenberger 32, a veterinarian of Mishawaka, Ind., shot himself to death accidentally near Kenton, 10 miles north of Houghton. His wife, Martha, said his gun went off as he stood on a stump.

Authorities had not yet determined whether Bethuy's death was murder or accident, but state trooper Oliver Doulla declared, "it looks fishy to us."

Bethuy, one of a hunting party of five, had stayed behind to guard two deer the party had bagged. His nephew, Robert Bethuy of Detroit, discovered his uncle's body, face down in the snow.

State police Sgt. Gerhard Carlson said one of the deer, a 10-point buck, had disappeared. Tracks in the snow indicated the carcass had been dragged almost a mile to a road.

Officers estimated Bethuy had been shot from about 25 yards. The bullet has not been found. Bethuy's rifle was found propped against the second deer.

Vocational Training Opened To Disabled Veterans From Korea

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Veterans of World War II who returned to active duty and were disabled after the outbreak of fighting in Korea may receive vocational training, the veterans administration said today, "even though they may have already trained under the GI bill."

The provision for additional training, VA explained, was included in legislation approved last month. It authorizes veterans with service-connected disabilities suffered after June 27, 1950, to take training "if they need it to overcome the handicap of those disabilities," VA said.

Three-Power Plan For Disarmament Comes Before UN

PARIS — (AP) — The United Nations political committee today voted to begin immediate discussion of a French-British-American disarmament plan. It shifted debate on a Russian "peace plan" to the end of the Paris session.

Committee debate on the three-power plan will begin Monday with U. S. secretary of state Dean Acheson leading the fight for adoption of the proposals.

The 60-member committee also rejected by a vote of 38 to 6 with 10 abstentions a Soviet plea that a Russian peace plan presented to the U. N. general assembly yesterday be discussed immediately after the western plan.

Western Union Chief Arrested In Betting Case

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — (AP) — Grand Rapids' battle to convict Western Union of a conspiracy to violate Michigan's gambling laws has erupted anew with the arrest of company vice-president in York and a reputed gambler-publisher in Indianapolis.

Samuel Barr, 45, Western Union vice-president of plant and engineering, was arrested in New York yesterday and ordered to appear Dec. 7 for a hearing on Michigan's attempt to extradite him.

John J. Gorman, an alleged gambler and president of the Capital City Publishing Co., of Indianapolis, surrendered there on a Michigan warrant charging him with cooperating in the alleged conspiracy with Western Union.

The new arrests stemmed from a Sept. 1 raid on an alleged horse race betting establishment here, which reputedly got its race information from Western Union. Two men accused of operating the bookie joint were arrested and ticker machines seized.

The new warrant claims the company and individuals "did unlawfully and wickedly agree, combine, conspire and confederate" to violate Michigan anti-gambling laws concerning "the making or laying of bets or wagers, or evidences of betting odds."

Killed At Crossing

HOLLAND, Mich. — (AP) — Richard Wiersma, 55, of Kalamazoo was killed last night when his auto collided with a freight train at a grade crossing near Waverly. Police said the car, in which Wiersma was riding alone, was dragged nearly a mile by the train.

Air Power Increase To Call For Added Billions Next Year

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congressional sources said today they expect an administration request next year for added billions of dollars to speed expansion of air power. And chances appear good now that the request will be met.

Some lawmakers stress the need for more air power quickly in his messages to the new session shortly after the first of the year.

Three senators, Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), Young (R-ND) and Lodge (R-Mass.), indicated they are anxious to boost the nation's present air power.

And Gen. Curtis LeMay, head of the Strategic Air Command (SAC), said last night his air lieutenants can launch swift retaliatory attack at any enemy, but that SAC has a gigantic task calling for more than "a handful of bombers and atomic bombs."

Lodge suggested that the Republicans use the aircraft and arms production record of the present Democratic administration as a 1952 campaign issue.

General LeMay made his remarks in an address to the national geography society. He said his long-range force includes B-29s, B-50s and the B-36, "our first truly intercontinental bomber," with the six-jet, medium B-47 "just beginning to come into our force."

Red Proposals On Cease-Fire Line Accepted

Deadlock Broken By U. N. Command

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

MUNSAN, Korea — (AP) — The U. N. command, in a diplomatic move to end the cease-fire deadlock, today offered to accept the Communist buffer zone proposal—if an armistice is signed within 30 days. The Communists indicated they might agree.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho told United Nations negotiators the U. N. plan "seems in the main to be in accordance with our principles."

Meet Again Sunday

The Reds promised to study the proposal overnight and "comment" further when the subcommittees working on the cease-fire line issue meet again at 11 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. EST Saturday) in Panmunjom.

Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodes, chief U. N. subcommittee delegate, told the Communist negotiators Saturday that the U. N. Allies will accept the Red proposal to fix a ten-

Dope Raids Nab 30 In Capital

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Narcotics police combed out the drug underworld of the nation's capital today, nabbing 30 "top men."

The announcement was made by Boyd M. Martin, capital area narcotics supervisor, as raids begun by more than 50 district policemen, deputy marshals and federal narcotics agents continued into early morning hours.

Martin said those arrested were independent "dope pushers." Many, he said, got supplies of heroin in New York and parceled it out to small peddlers here.

Also, he said, they were supplying men for illegal drug sellers in Baltimore, Md., and Richmond and Norfolk, Va., all near Washington.

Martin declined to tell newsmen how many more drug sellers were being sought, but it was indicated the raids were not ended. He said his department and others had been gathering evidence for the raids since July 27. By that date, Martin said, major dope operators in the District of Columbia area had been catalogued.

The raids were the first since President Truman signed a new law requiring stiff penalties for second offenders in the dope racket.

Air Power Increase To Call For Added Billions Next Year

"This striking force would be launched against the enemy's industrial force in the early days of the next war," he said, adding:

"We can insure that the battle fought on the battlefield will be (by strategic bombing) considerably shortened and less costly. If our strategic air command is properly supported and we do our job properly, the results... Will insure our ultimate victory."

Auto Repairing Guide Available

Whitney R. Dixon, Manager of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, advised that the latest in the series of occupational guides has been published by the Michigan Employment Security Commission on automobile-body repairing.

Like other guides in the series, this one is designed as a tool for counseling young workers in their choice of a profession. The full series presents an accurate cross section of the jobs in Michigan communities, and is extremely valuable in determining what jobs will fit a particular individual.

The automobile-body repairman is the one who straightens out the fenders that have a traffic-permanent wave, or repairs any damage to the body of the car. Of course, the occupation was unknown 50 years ago.

The guide gives the outline of training necessary to do this work, wages and job opportunities in the field, prospects of employment in this type of work, and something about the working conditions of the industry.

Mr. Dixon advised that further information can be obtained concerning this or other occupational guides at the local office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, 1323 Ludington St., Escanaba.

Dr. Taylor Says: Latin America Would Aid Us Against Reds

In the event of a shooting war against Soviet Russia, we could count on Latin America to provide us with military bases, raw materials and a small amount of manpower, Dr. Philip Taylor said in a University of Michigan extension series lecture here last night.

While "dollar diplomacy" caused dislike of the United States in past decades, Taylor said that the more recent "good neighbor" policy has been making friends in the Latin American countries.

Taylor, a member of the political science department of the University of Michigan, spent 10 months in Uruguay after the war studying its political and economic condition. He was the last of the series of six University of Michigan professors to speak here on the topic, "The United States in World Affairs."

Has Modern Cities

Much misunderstanding concerning Latin America exists in this country, Taylor said. Movies and publications have tended to give the impression that it is a backward although colorful continent. While conditions are primitive in isolated rural areas, Latin America has modern cities with skyscrapers, theatres, parks, symphony orchestras and other cultural institutions, Taylor said.

Discussing the governments of Latin American countries, Taylor said that while forms of dictatorship exist in Argentina, Honduras, Venezuela, Peru and Columbia, "sincere efforts to become more democratic are being made in Brazil, Chili, Ecuador, Costa Rica and Cuba. He added that Uruguay has in some respects achieved more democracy than the United States, for in that smallest independent South American country there is more direct participation in government.

"There are no lobbies or pressure groups in Uruguay," Taylor said. "Since it is a small country of only two and a half million population, the people are closer to their government. Elections are fair and honest, and the leading citizens prepare themselves for years to hold important positions in government."

Dr. Taylor said Uruguay affords full freedom of speech. Communists are allowed to hold mass meetings in public places without interference. However, the Communist party received only one per cent of the vote in Uruguay's last election as compared to 20 per cent in the 1947 election in Brazil, where "the Communists were repressed."

The Uruguayans believe that everyone has a right to his own ideas, Taylor pointed out. Latin America's struggle to achieve democratic forms of government has been hindered by the fact that it has not had the background for self-government such as that which existed when the American colonies declared their independence.

The American colonists had experienced and trained administrators, but this was not the case in the Latin American countries after the revolutions that began with Simon Bolivar's uprising in Venezuela in 1810. Before Latin America won its independence, the colonial governments were in control of administrators sent from Portugal and Spain, and the masses had no political experience.

Concerning the characteristics of the Latin-Americans, Taylor said they are stubborn and do not like to take orders unless they have respect for their superiors.

"When the fellow on the top slips in their esteem, there eventually will be a blow-up," Taylor said. "This is the reason that these countries have had a succession of strong leaders."

The average person cannot afford to own a car in South America. Only the upper class and taxicab drivers drive automobiles. This tends to give them a feeling of superiority, causing them to drive ruthlessly with utter disregard of traffic regulations and the rights of others, Taylor said.

"To achieve greater democracy in Latin America," Taylor continued, "there needs to be a greater feeling of responsibility on the part of the upper classes toward the lower classes."

Wages Are Low

He explained that labor is paid low wages in most Latin American communities. The wealthy families of Spanish and Portuguese origin have not invested in home industries, but have chosen to put their money in diamonds, land and other real estate.

Taylor added that newcomers, such as immigrants from foreign lands who have made good in business and industry, have been quicker to recognize that they owe a responsibility to society. Latin Americans seek industrialization as a means of creating a greater middle class, held essential for democratization.

Pointing out that Latin American countries have offered to assist the U. N. forces in the Korean conflict, Taylor predicted that they would give even more aid in an all-out war against Russia. They would not be able to supply manufactured goods because industrial development is still negligible, he explained.

in that country for years.

The Peron regime has improved sanitation, schools, streets and other public facilities, but it presents all the evils of dictatorship, Taylor added. Agricultural production has declined 60 per cent since Peron's ascension to power because his government has transferred much farm labor to the cities.

Person has built up a large army upon which he depends for support of his regime, while his wife, Eveta, has rallied the support of labor unions and other groups. Nevertheless, the situation in Argentina is explosive and another revolt might occur any time, Taylor concluded.

Supt. John A. Lemmer introduced the speaker.

Justice Gets Tangled On Chicago Twins

CHICAGO — (AP)—Justice Teeter dizzily because neither the arresting officer nor the judge in auto safety court could tell twin sisters apart.

The 30-year-old twins, Lucille Lisiecke and Jean Leigh (she shortened her name), got into a quarrel in Lucille's auto on Nov. 2.

Police arrested one twin, Lucille (they think), and caught the other after a two mile chase after the auto. The chase was charged with drunken driving, disorderly conduct, not having a driver's license or city sticker, and resisting arrest.

In court, however, Policeman Brett Davies said the twin who did the driving, Jean (he thought), was sober.

"Point them out," ordered Judge William V. Daly.

"I can't tell them apart," answered Davies.

Looking at the twin he thought was Jean, Judge Daly said: "Jean, I'm going to dismiss the drunken driving charge but I am fining you $21 on the other charges."

"But I'm Lucille, your honor," said the twin.

The other sister said she was Jean and paid the fine.

With The Deer Hunters

Hunters in the eastern section of Delta county got a break yesterday and many of them killed bucks, but the kill was generally light elsewhere in the district, the conservation department reported today.

Back roads are improved, but main roads in Delta and Schoolcraft counties today were generally slippery with many cars skidding into the ditch, according to Michigan state police.

Last night's snowfall that brought snow of the ground from one inch in the Escanaba area to six inches at Big Bay on Lake Superior in Marquette county, aided hunters but covered icy roads with a deceptive covering for traffic.

No hunters were reported lost or wounded since yesterday in the Escanaba conservation district, including Delta, Marquette and the west half of Alger county.

Hunting success came to M/Sgt. Leo Laviolette of Escanaba when he downed a 16 pointer weighing 225 pounds near Watson, Sgt. Laviolette is attached to the U. S. Army and Air Force recruiting office at Escanaba.

Nestor Erickson of Groos, hunting on the Stonington Peninsula the opening day of the season, brought down a 10-point buck. His brother, Ray Erickson of Stonington, also filled his license.

Opening day luck also attended the hunting of Joseph Perron, 1214 Tenth avenue south, who killed an 8-pointer in the Osier territory; and Roy Lee, 806 South 14th street, who bagged a spike horn while hunting out of his camp near Nahma.

Other Delta county hunters filling their licenses yesterday included Rene Terrian of Cornell, who downed a six point buck weighing 180 pounds while hunting in the Cornell area about 9 a. m. yesterday.

Ted Schwartz of Wells downed a seven-point buck weighing 165 pounds while hunting in the Danforth area the opening day.

Elmer Johnson of Danforth, accompanied by his 12-year-old daughter, Mertha Lee, went hunting yesterday afternoon near the Johnson farm after Bertha Lee came home from school. Within less than an hour Johnson downed a big 200-pounder.

Francis Rabitoy jr., 16, Gladstone high school junior, killed a nice spike buck Friday in the vicinity of Bishop Lake on the Whitefish. It was his first deer hunting trip. The deer weighed 175 pounds, it is estimated.

Richard Couchene of Escanaba Route One shot an eight-point buck, weighing 175 pounds, in the Danforth area at 10 this morning. He was out hunting about three hours.

From the William J. "Bill" Karas camp at Cornell comes a report of success by two members of the party. Grey Knaus, Cornell, bagged a 145-pound spikehorn; Lawrence "Pete" Johnson downed an eight-pointer weighing 180 pounds.

Lawrence Richer of Schaffer shot an 80-pound spike horn at his LaBranche camp Friday afternoon.

Potato Price Ceilings Seen

Government Says Rise Must Be Controlled

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Price control officials said Thursday ceilings may have to be placed on white potatoes if prices continue to rise as they have in the last few months.

The officials told potato growers that if ceilings do become necessary they will be set at a level to assure a parity price return to farmers. Parity is a price calculated to give the farmer a fair price for his products in relation to what he has to buy.

The price situation was reviewed by the Office of Price Stabilization with the newly appointed white potato advisory committee.

ship of 350,000 business and professional executives. Activities of the clubs are similar in all countries—promoting fellowship, community undertaking, good will, understanding and peace among all the peoples of the world.

Continuing in growth, Rotary last year added 275 new clubs in 35 countries of North, South and Central America, Europe, Asia, Africa, and Islands of the Pacific.

Officials pointed out that the national average price of potatoes rose from $1.23 a bushel, or 69 per cent of parity, on Sept. 15, to $1.39 a bushel, or 76 per cent of parity on Oct. 15. The parity price on Oct. 15 was $1.83 a bushel.

OPS has received reports that prices of some grades are considerably higher than average as of Oct. 15.

The Agriculture Department will announce at the end of November the average national price and its per cent of parity for this month. It also is computing the national parity price on a regional basis.

White Pine And Kinross Federal Projects Are Important To U. P.

THE Associated Press this week carried two news dispatches that forecast economic development of tremendous importance to the Upper Peninsula—the reactivation of Kinross air base and the granting of the $57 million loan by the RFC for the White Pine copper mine project.

Sault Ste. Marie and vicinity will feel the benefits of the Kinross project after Dec. 1 when 700 military personnel and 100 civilian workers will be assigned to the base by the Air Force. Already the largest city in the Upper Peninsula, Sault Ste. Marie is likely assured of more growth and increased business activity.

The White Pine project is one that promises even greater economic benefits to the western portion of the Upper Peninsula, particularly Ontonagon county which has been on the decline in recent years.

The ghost town of White Pine promises to grow bigger than Ontonagon, the county seat. About $15 million will be expended by the Copper Range company for the construction of a townsite, and it is expected White Pine will someday have a population of 5,000. Upwards of 2,000 men will be employed eventually at the mine, which will produce 75 million pounds of copper annually when in full production.

Revival of White Pine mine has been

Peron Still Sits In A Shaky Seat

JUAN Peron, riding the crest of a 2 to 1 election majority, may be able to contend honestly that Argentina's recent voting was really fair. But that was all part of the plot; the rigging was done in advance.

Every dictator yearns for respectability, and Peron is no exception. He would like the world to believe he is actually the choice of his people. Perhaps he is, but this election did not prove it.

For the dictator who resorts to the forms of democracy to enhance his stature still finds it necessary to eliminate the inherent risks of the democratic method. Peron took care of that aspect of his problem nicely.

First of all, he held tight rule over press and radio, effectively throttling the opposition's voice. Secondly, the Peronistas, his political party, changed the election law to favor themselves.

Beyond this, Peron completely intimidated and restricted the other parties by a variety of devices, not excluding imprisonment. The leader of the Radical Party, no democratic rose himself, twice was jailed for showing "disrespect" to Peron.

The Argentine dictator used the pretext of the recent abortive military revolt to arrest many civilian political enemies and frighten many more.

By all these measures Peron assured himself that the election-day results would be "right" without use of sordid tactics like ballot-box stuffing or fraudulent counting. He won by an agreeable margin—not too flashy, but just the kind of majority a reasonably popular fellow might be expected to pile up.

So, theoretically at least, the Argentines have Peron for another six years. But it would not be sensible to consider this an assured fact. For in truth Peron is in a very shaky position.

Temporarily, he has passed his test, not with the electorate but with the army, the real power in Argentina. But the top military men could change their minds at any time.

Peron has run Argentine economic affairs with often ignorant abandon. Consequently, the country now is in the grip of serious inflation. Many parts of the economy are out of kilter. Farmers are in rebellion against price controls.

Before the election, army leaders examined this whole situation carefully with Peron. Presumably they were satisfied for the moment with his plans for coping with the trouble. But any marked failure in the months ahead could lead to his quick ouster. Some reports say he is already feathering a nest in exile in anticipation of this prospect.

The Argentine people do not appear to put any great store yet by the freedoms we prize so highly. Hence the army doesn't worry about them, either. But the Argentines have as much concern for their stomachs and their pocketbooks as people anywhere. And that explains the army's fretting over present trends.

Peron's re-election has fooled no one into believing he is a democratically chosen president. But neither should the fact his election was rigged deceive anyone into thinking him a dictator of great strength and cunning. In the most realistic sense he is the creature of the army, aping the dictator's mannerisms but lacking real power. He could be brought down at a stroke.

Football Freeze

By Gordon Martin

Comes another football Saturday and gloomy is the sky, and at warnings of a frosty storm, you cast your weather-eye, then you dress yourself accordingly in garments rather old, but which in the past have served you well in keeping out the cold. And when time arrives to leave the house and travel to the game, you discover that your clothing doesn't satisfy a dame.

For it's the little woman, who is wearing all her best, has a lot of caustic words to say about the way you're dressed. And she'd have you know that, furthermore, she'll see no game with you, if you don't put on some decent clothes to match her duds so new. Then you argue that the weather outlook indicates a freeze, but you get nowhere in saying she'll regret her nylon knues.

So you put on all your finery and to the game you drive, but the little woman soon declares she surely can't survive, in a stadium so icy that you see your every breath, and you've got to take her home because she's frozen most to death. So you sigh and leave the football game and home you quickly go, and you know that it is futile if you say I-told-you-so.

MARTIN

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Here is the inside story on the Korean truce talks.

General Ridgway has cabled a strong recommendation to the Pentagon that we maintain military pressure on the Communists until all the terms of the armistice are met. Otherwise, he warns that the Chinese will stall over such matters as inspection teams and exchanging prisoners.

Ridgway also claimed that his forces can hurry the final armistice—provided they remain free to twist the Communists' arm. On the other hand, he argues that after a truce his men won't feel like fighting for ground that they know is going to be given back anyway. Ridgway's gamble is that his tactics won't cause a breakdown of the talks, but will actually speed the final armistice.

However, there is no question but that Ridgway's proposal represents a definite and important change of policy. Therefore his proposal is still under active consideration by the joint chiefs of staff and the National Security council. Until they reach a final decision, he has been given authority to press his demands at Panmunjon.

Here are the background facts which they are considering.

When we went into the truce talks, the biggest obstacle seemed to be drawing a truce line. We agreed—in fact, urged—that the truce line be settled first. This has been the whole question of the past several weeks. We even drew our proposed truce line on a map so the Communists could have no doubts about it. After months of haggling, the Communists finally came around to our terms. Their last proposal was so close to our demands that there was nothing left to haggle over. At first Washington couldn't understand why Ridgway didn't snap it up, but sent his negotiators back instead with a flat rejection and a warning that the truce line couldn't be drawn until the other terms of the armistice were settled.

REASONS FOR REVERSAL

In other words, we reversed ourselves regarding the proposed line we had previously drawn; ignored the long months of haggling over a few yards of ground here, a few miles there; and announced that a firm line couldn't be drawn until the armistice was ready to be signed, sealed and delivered.

The reason for this reversal was that originally we agreed to take up the truce line first, because we then didn't plan to go anywhere during the armistice. We planned to move into strong positions in the hills and camp there for the winter. In fact, Ridgway told Gen. Omar Bradley, as previously reported in this column, that jeep accidents would outnumber battle casualties this winter. What Ridgway meant by this was that he didn't plan to do any fighting. Thus, there was no reason not to draw the truce line first.

The last Communist proposal agrees that the fighting should continue until the final armistice terms are settled. It even agrees that our planes should have the right to continue bombing Communist supply lines.

However, Ridgway is now so confident in his own military strength and so convinced the Chinese are seriously crippled that he is willing to gamble on using force in order to speed up the entire negotiations and gain a more favorable armistice. What he fears is that the communists will stall once a truce is decided and wait all winter before agreeing to a final peace. This would mean leaving our prisoners in Chinese hands during the dread Korean winter—a winter which some of them could not survive.

SANTA CLAUS AND UNCLE SAM

Perhaps for the first time in history a department of the government has officially recognized Santa Claus.

The man who has unbent to this extent is Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman who has issued an application blank, bearing the picture of Santa Claus, by which those living near government-owned lands can cut Christmas trees for their families.

Previously, the interior department used a application blank that was so complicated and required so many unnecessary answers that the applicant usually gave up in disgust and cut the trees on public lands anyway.

In contrast, Secretary Chapman has printed the following application form, featuring a red and green picture of Santa Claus in the background:

"Through the courtesy of the Bureau of Land Management of the Department of the Interior, and in the spirit of the holiday season, (name and address) is hereby granted permission to cut and remove from lands under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management in the vicinity of _____, on or before _____, Christmas trees (species). This permit is granted on the express condition that the permittee will not sell, barter or trade said trees and that they will be used solely for Christmas season purposes and none other."

(Signed) Oscar L. Chapman, Secretary of the Interior and Marion Clawson, director, Bureau of Land Management.

White House On 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue Is Dream House Of 1952

THE RED ROOM: The same color, but in varying shades. (These are an artist's drawings.)

BROADCASTING ROOM: In an old kitchen made over, fireside chats will be more authentic.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Writer

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Presenting the dream house of 1952: It is rent free to the right tenant; comes equipped with a highly efficient staff of maids, cooks, butlers, doormen, gardeners and social secretaries; and is protected day and night by the most efficient watchmen in the world.

Its brand new features include an atomic bomb shelter; a radio, television set, telephone and public address system in every room; a solarium for sun bathing on the roof; the very latest in air conditioning and humidity control equipment; huge cold storage rooms in the basement; an earthquake-proof foundation; five elevators; and 54 rooms, including 21 bedrooms.

Each room is decorated according to a plan which has been supervised by the U. S. Fine Arts Commission, the most outstanding group of experts in the U. S. on decor and good taste.

No expense has been spared in making it the most modern and comfortable house in the world. Exact cost of renovation is $5,761,000.

Its other established features include a balcony, built at a cost of considerable mental strain to the present occupant; a swimming pool; several acres of shady lawns, and beautiful gardens; adjoining office space; and a high iron fence which is wired with radar.

This unique house is located in a not very exclusive section of town, but it has an easy address to remember, 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. N. W. It has an easy name to remember, too—it's called the White House. And it is close to a good shopping center, downtown Washington, with churches of practically every denomination a few blocks away.

Sometimes you might be bothered by visitors asking for handouts but that is all right because the world's greatest supply of money, the U. S. Treasury, is just across the street. Among the extras are, a yacht, a fleet of limousines and a summer home in Key West, Fla., which go with the lease.

This fabulous residence will be furnished largely with second-hand furniture and appointments, but, as part of the renovation, all pieces have been refinished and repolished. They include the most priceless collections of antiques and historical pieces which can be found in the country. Practically no new items will be used in the renovated house.

What used to be the Green, Blue and Red rooms will continue to be decorated in those colors but with varying shades. Silk and satin will be used for draperies and chair covers. Instead of dark wood panels for the state dining room, there will be wood stained a light green.

Above the first couple of floors, where the rooms for official and formal functions are located, the living quarters for the main tenant and his family and the guest rooms will be decorated in an early American theme with emphasis on comfort and informality.

In these rooms printed cottons, instead of silks, will be used for draperies, coverings and trim. An old kitchen on the lower floor has been restored with stone fire places for use as a broadcasting and conference room. This, apparently, is to make fireside chats more authentic.

A recent strike of plasterers held up that phase of the job, but the plastering will soon be finished. The biggest part of the job left to do is laying the marble and wood flooring. Marble is being used for some of the floors of the official rooms while hardwood will be used in the living quarters.

It is estimated that sometime in December the construction men should be through and then the decorators and painters will start working. After that is finished, it will probably take about a month to move in all of the used furniture.

When that is complete, maybe in January, the present lessee, a Harry Truman and family, will move in for what might be only a temporary occupancy. One other man, a Robert Taft, has announced that he would like to live there, if possible. It is known that others are interested, too, but are waiting for a more opportune time to announce their bid for the house.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

BOOMERANG LAND—Frank Barron, Flat Rock potato farmer, and his wife are now on their way to Australia—or they may already be there since they are traveling by air.

Frank said he was going there to study sheep raising, although it may be possible he might stay and set himself up in the panda and boomerang export business. This would supply the local demand, at least.

"Six people have asked me to bring them pandas and some more want boomerangs—and on the plane they only let you have 60 pounds of luggage," Frank said before leaving on his trip.

When he returns next spring he and Mrs. Barron will probably have 60 pounds of luggage without pandas—although we are hoping for boomerang as a gift. I know a politician who should use one in 1952.

LOOKING AHEAD—At Sault Ste. Marie where the voters have approved a school building bond issue, the first section of their new Lincoln school was dedicated the other day.

Dr. Lee M. Thurston, state superintendent of public instruction, was on hand for the occasion with a dedicatory address.

The new school would, he said, play an important role in the unfolding development of the Sault area.

"Fifty years from now, when all of us are gone, America will be the boys and girls of today who are attending this and other schools in our land."

Further, said Thurston, the money invested by the people in their new schools was like an investment in an estate for their children—with this difference: Wealth represented in an estate might be stolen or lost, but benefits of a good education lives forever with the individual.

TRICKY IDEAS—At this season the sewing clubs are busy turning out tricky gifts to present to some lucky person at Christmas.

Sewing as a home art should be encouraged, but some of the gift suggestions to which our attention has been directed should be cut up with a sharp pair of pinkish shears.

One of these ideas is that of making cute items for married folks and embroidering "His" and "Hers" on them. This can only lead to marital difficulties, particularly among newlyweds.

Best foundation for a happy marriage is the early understanding that the two are joined, in partnership for life—including sharing the same hand towel, pillowcase, and joint bank account.

HELPING HANDS—Opening day of the deer season found a number of hunters with their cars stuck to the axles in mud on the Black Creek truck trail in the Round Lake area.

Big push to the woods occurred the day before, and a number of hunters would never have reached camp without the assistance of Allen Tweedy, assistant district conservation supervisor, and other conservation officers. They helped push hunters' cars through deep mud on the back roads.

This was another example of the saying that the conservation officer is the hunter's friend. The officer protects game for the sportsman, searches for the lost hunter, delivers emergency messages, and generally makes himself useful.

The only time he becomes a scoundrel is when he catches a true blue sportsman in the role of game hog.

PARENTS LIKE IT—The other evening we attended an Escanaba high school music department concert, one of several to be presented this winter and next spring. The audience largely comprised doing parents and other relatives of the student musicians.

Robert S. Meyer and Clara Karas Somers of the school music staff introduced the musicians and their numbers.

The program presented students ranging from the Seventh to the 12th grade and pleased the audience of parents who, in some instances, had never heard anything except their youngster's home practice efforts.

Parents agreed their children's musical talents appeared vastly improved when presented on stage with accompaniment or as part of the group.

THINGS THAT AREN'T THERE

Few people have had the opportunity to be in a spot during the right atmospheric conditions to see a mirage (mu-RAH-zh), that picture of startling reality in the desert air that fades away as one draws nearer. But many of us have had other experiences that, at the moment, seem as real. These differ in their nature, and if we wish to be precise in our descriptions we should know how they differ.

Almost everyone, on stepping out into his yard at night, has seen an object that he takes to be a threatening dog about to spring. After a startled moment the dog resolves itself into a familiar small bush, and the beholder feels foolish. Or it may be that a man, stalking across the yard, turns into a motionless clothes post.

These are "illusions" (i-LOO-shunz). (Optical illusions are, usually, geometric figures so drawn as to create unreal effects.) A "delusion" (di-LOO-zhun) differs from an illusion in that, although there is also a real object, the notion that it is something other than it really is persists in the sufferer's mind, returned again and again no matter how often it is shown to be false. Or, in a lesser stage, a delusion is a mistaken belief resulting from an act of deliberate deception.

The term "aberration" (AB-uh-RAY-shun) scarcely belongs in this company except in medical parlance. In ordinary usage it implies little more than a slip of the mind, a "wandering," as its Latin source makes it—"aberratio." A "moment of temporary aberration," a phrase that we often hear, is a moment when we say or do something absent-mindedly that we would not say or do consciously. But among physicians "aberration" indicates a mind that wanders repeatedly; hence, a mild form of insanity.

Importance Of CARE Emphasized By Woman's Club

Each CARE food package subscribed by Americans kept five Korean orphans alive for seven days, during the tragic weeks before the second occupation of Seoul by Communist forces last winter.

That illustration of what CARE packages can mean to war victims is cited by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in appealing for public support of the Thanksgiving-season "CARE-for-KOREA" campaign now being conducted by its affiliated Women's Clubs throughout the United States.

In all, 3500 children in 34 Seoul orphanages were sustained by the CARE food distributed during the first wartime delivery of CARE packages in Korea last December, according to a UN relief official who handled the deliveries. From a stockpile of 3000 CARE food packages, distribution to the orphanages was made on a weekly basis of one package for every five children.

"Those CARE packages not only saved the children's lives then, but kept them from dying during the evacuation," the UN representative later reported to CARE officials, "for each group of children was issued CARE packages before they started the journey from Seoul."

Contributions to the General Federation of Women's Clubs campaign are being used to provide Korean orphans refugees and other civilian war victims with CARE food, clothing textiles and blankets.

Delivery of the gifts will be made in time for the Christmas holiday. In this city, donations in any amount can be sent to CARE-for-KOREA, In Care of Miss Josephine Ryan, Escanaba Woman's Club.

Remember that odor is the best guide in buying melons. Color, plumpness, and freedom from bruises also should be considered in buying all fruits. Size may affect the price of fruit but does not always affect its eating quality.

LUDINGTON BUY-LINES

by Sue Donimus

WITH holidays approaching we all prepare for guests; And company descending Fills Mom with strange requests—"I wish you'd fix the table; That chair is shaky, too!" And on she goes, just listing The things her man should do! But Pop is very clever—As down the street he flies, "There's only one solution—Ted's Fix-it Shop!" he cries!

I'm no Puritan, so I easily succumbed to the temptation to buy several dresses for my girls from the racks at Ward's! Who could resist this new shipment of children's frocks with desirable prices and adorable styles? Dan River fabrics included in the cottons, failles, cords, rayons and velvets. Infants to size 14; $1.98 to $7.98. Buy several of these gay dresses at Ward's and make your daughter thankful you're her Mom!

If you want to unlock her heart this Christmas, here's the combination. It's chrome and glassware—combined in unique serving pieces at the Photo Art Shop. A lovely crystal nut bowl is centered with a chrome holder for the nut cracker and picks. Crystal cream and sugar bowls are easily passed on the small chrome tray with its tall center handle. Salad bowls and other charming pieces at the Photo Art use chrome and crystal in order to form a more perfect union!

PAWNBROKER'S sign: "See me at your earliest convenience!" Down at the Escanaba Steam Laundry I think they should put up a sign that says—"See us when you want to come clean." You'll confess you have lots of clothes that need dry cleaning now before the holidays. And you know the sparkling, fresh results that you get every time from Escanaba Steam Laundry cleaning. Phone 134 and ask for pick up service on both laundry and dry cleaning. Appearances are sometimes deceiving, but a well groomed family is a sure sign you care!

IT'S not double steak when I say well done steaks are rare! I know you'll well come news from Costell's Eat Shop. I stopped in yesterday and heard all about their choice line of steaks. Honestly, they promise money cheerfully refunded if you don't like them! They're served with French fries, salad and coffee, and priced from $1.55 up. Costell's Eat Shop is also a dandy place for that pick-up cup of coffee. But most especially I say—steak your life at Costell's Eat Shop—916 Ludington.

AMERICAN men may have designs on you, but they can't compare with the French designs of Jaque Fath! Two of his original hat creations can be seen at Marcell's Shoppe—they're made of gold mesh with gold veiling and are very oia la! Another precious holiday hat is of firefly-red feathers. Marcell's Shoppe has even more than ever the atmosphere of gay Paris since her Chicago buying trip where she made contact with a French designer. See her new shipment of blouses, robes and hostess gowns. You'll never be "old hat" with a French chapeau!

A GOOD example of period furniture is the electric chair—it ends the sentence. And a good example of a man's chair is a Petersen Furniture Shop for it provides the basis of happiness for Dad's evenings at home. You'll like the durable fabric or plastic coverings in all color choices. And these base rockers come in mamasized chairs, too! You want to stop in at Petersen's any day now for other gift suggestions for the home. You'll find a wonderful display of small tables that will give you table talk for weeks to come. And lamps that leave not a shadow of a doubt, but are a shining example of the finest, modern home lighting. Top quality, always, at Petersen's!

MEN don't usually like women who make scenes. But everyone dikes Grandma Moses who made four scenes at Eden's Gift Shop. Real attention getters are the fine white china plates with gay Grandma Moses' paintings at the center. Especially charming for serving holiday foods, or to hang as a decorative wall piece. On the back of each plate is a homespun description of the scene written by Grandma Moses, with her own signature. Especially appropriate for this season is the Thanksgiving plate. I suggest you stop in at Eden's next week to talk turkey!

YOU know what a synonym is—that's the word you use when you can't spell the word you want! If the student at your house has trouble with spelling, you'll be interested in the report of teachers that says spelling, punctuation and grammar are all improved with typing. Boosts marks, too! The Smith-Corona portable—world's fastest—is the ideal typewriter for students. It's speedy action and amazingly quick margin setting make it far and away my favorite. Typewriter dealers themselves voted for Smith-Corona 2 to 1 on an independent test! You'll vote for it 100% after you've tried one at the Office Service Company. Get that student all keyed up—with a Smith-Corona from the Office Service!

The Gould

A Spacious, Early-American Type House

Rooms Eight
Bedrooms Four
Closets Ten
Cubage: House 27,000 ft.
Garage 4,200 ft.
Dimensions 37' x 26'

Although it contains seven spacious rooms, "The Gould" is economical to build because it measures but 37x26 feet in overall dimensions.

The roof overhang and the ornamental drops add to the attractiveness of the house exterior; the overhang also provides extra living space for the second floor.

Either an all wood or a combination wood and masonry finish, as in the illustration, can be used with equally attractive and effective results for "The Gould."

Somewhat protected by the second story overhang, the front doorway is itself very attractive. Glass panels in the upper section of the door add decorative appeal and at the same time serve the practical function of admitting light to the entry hall.

Both the dining and the living rooms open directly off the entry hall which connects with another hallway leading to the other rooms on the first floor of this house. A large closet is conveniently located in the further section of the right wall in the hallway.

Measuring 24' 6" x 13", the living room is a spacious, pleasant and well planned room. Three windows provide plenty of light and ventilation for the room and also add decorative appeal. Located in the center of the left wall, the fireplace also serves both a practical and decorative purpose.

Almost directly across the entry hall from the living room is the 13' 6" x 12' 6" dining room. The three windowed bay in the front wall takes top decorative honors in this room; plan your color scheme and furniture arrangement accordingly. Extra light and ventilation is provided by the window in the right wall.

To save yourself steps when you're serving meals in the dining room as well as when you're clearing the table afterwards, be sure to place your dining room table and chair set as near to the doorway from the kitchen as possible. And if you'd like extra china storage space, have cabinets built into the two left corners of the room.

Larger than many of the kitchens found in modern homes, the kitchen is planned as a work center yet contains enough area for a good-sized breakfast nook in the right front corner of the room. Working counter, cupboards and cabinets are arranged in a U along the left, back and right walls of the 13'6" x 12' room. Located under the double windows in the back wall, the sink is centered in the line of working counters. The stove is placed at the right end of the array of counters.

You'll find the broom closet, in the left front corner of the room, a convenient storage spot for your brooms, mops, and all types of cleaning equipment. Placed right next to the broom closet is the refrigerator which is located just a few steps from the working counters and but a short distance from the stove.

The utility room is reached through the door in the right kitchen wall. Two windows and a door in both the front and back walls of this room provide plenty of light and good ventilation as well as easy access to both the front and back yards. That last-named factor is especially appreciated on washdays.

Protection both to and from the garage is provided by the utility room. Measuring 20'x12', the garage itself receives ample light and ventilation from the window in the right wall. Large enough to hold a work bench for the home handy man, the garage has good overhead storage space.

All of the bedrooms on the second floor of "The Gould" have cross ventilation and good storage space. A central hallway connects all the bedrooms, the bathroom (placed between the two front bedrooms) and the lavatory, placed between the two rear bedrooms.

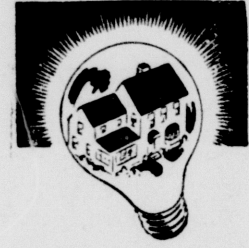

Both the right back bedroom and the left front one measure

59 RUSCO WINDOW

Installation for Well-Known Gladstone Insurance Man

Residence of Ross P. Davis and Davista Apartments at Corner of 13th and Lake Shore, Gladstone.

November 12, 1951
Gladstone, Michigan

Wait Window Company
Escanaba, Michigan
Gentlemen:

Earlier this fall you installed 59 Rusco Storm Sash and a Rusco Steel Door on my home and apartment houses, and I am so well pleased with them that I feel prompted to write you this letter.

My home is located on a noisy and busy street corner, but with the application of your windows this annoyance has been greatly reduced.

Furthermore, the dust and dirt that used to filter through the house windows has been practically eliminated, making the house much easier to keep clean.

The most important feature of your windows is the comfort derived from every room. No drafts or cold air is felt when you sit near a window, something you could never do before in winter weather.

Judging from the fewer number of times my oil burner goes on, and for shorter periods each time, it can't help but show a definite fuel saving at the end of the year.

You can readily understand from the above why I am so enthusiastic in recommending these windows to other people, because they are proving to be such a wise investment. If you ever have anyone who is in doubt about buying the Rusco windows, just send them to me.

Very truly yours,
R. P. Davis

Turkey's Improved Economy Stems From American Aid

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
ANKARA, Turkey —(NEA)—Five hundred million dollars worth of U. S. military and economic aid have been poured into Turkey in the last five years. This does not include the estimated $45 million economic aid to be given this year and as yet unannounced amount for military aid. The natural question is, "What have we got for our money?"

Aid to Turkey got well started in 1947, a year before the Marshall Plan was invented. This aid began under the so-called Truman doctrine. Congress approved it in record time — three-fourths for Greece, which had an actual war on its hands, one-fourth for Turkey.

The consensus is now that if this aid has not been given, Greece would today be behind the Iron Curtain, and maybe Turkey, too, though the latter would have given a battle.

From the end of World War II to 1948, the Turks had spent half their budget on military defenses. They had a reasonably strong army, but lacked equipment. The original idea of the Truman doctrine was that the Turks would just be given the equipment. They would be allowed to use it as they saw fit.

Very early, however, it became apparent this wouldn't do. Turkey had no roads over which heavy military equipment could be moved. So U. S. Bureau of Public Roads had to be called in to plan a highway system. This has developed into a nine-year program, with five years still to go.

15,000 Mile Highway System
At its end, Turkey will have a 15,000-mile system of all-weather military roads which will greatly add to its defense. They will be gravel roads, with only a fourth hard surfaced. The Marshall Plan has kicked another $15 million into this enterprise, paying the salaries of some 50 highway engineers and mechanics who are training the Turks to build and maintain their own highways.

The road system is of more than military benefit. It has opened up new areas to farming and enabled Turkey to move to market, for export, wheat that could not even be grown before. And whereas Turkey only had 2700 tractors before the road and economic programs began, the number now is 20,000 with 4000 more on order.

Just giving the Turks the equipment was soon found to be wrong for another reason. They didn't know how to operate it and, much less, how to maintain and repair it. So large-scale training had to be started. It now includes some 15 schools, teaching over 200 subjects, and from which there have been about 30,000 graduates, 6000 of them officers. The motto of all the schools is, "Here Turks are taught to teach other Turks."

On top of this, last spring, on a Turkish general staff suggestion, a Turkish-American inspection-training corps was formed. It now has some 400 officers in the field, inspecting Turkish armed forces' efficiency. This corps, plus nearly 1000 instructors, make the U. S. training program in Turkey its largest foreign military mission.

Build Military Bases

In addition to equipment and training, the United States is helping Turkey enlarge its air bases and build a new naval base at Iskenderon, at the northeast "corner" of the Mediterranean. The present Turk naval base on the Sea of Marmara, between the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles, is considered too exposed. Iskenderon would also be the natural supply base for all Turkish military operations, in case the country were attacked.

Practically all purely civilian Turkish aid programs under the Marshall Plan have now been ended, but those projects still under construction will be completed. Perhaps the biggest of these is the $49 million hydro-electric power, irrigation and flood-control project at Sariyar in west central Turkey. It will supply power to the Istanbul - Ankara area and will be Turkey's first power grid.

ECA's main contribution to Turkey has been building up its agriculture. The aim has been to make Turkey the bread basket for this part of the world. And this year, Turkey's earnings from sales abroad of farm products will be greater than the Marshall Plan Plan aid.

Industrially, Turkey has exported 50,000 tons of pig iron to the United States this year, al-

Joseph Herbert of Manistique, chairman of the committee of the whole of the Board of Regents and senior member in point of service, will be the presiding officer.

Roscoe Bonisteel of Ann Arbor, representing the Regents, will install President Hatcher, and the University's new leader will speak. Singing of the "Yellow and Blue" and the benediction will conclude the inaugural ceremony.

Both Legs Broken; 'Auto Victim' Turns Out To Be Convict

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Two policemen patrolling by car saw a man crouched on a doorstep. Upon investigating, they found Clinton, Crawford, 36, with both legs fractured.

While being taken to hospital Crawford told police he was run down by "a driver who just let me lie there."

Later, when a policeman notified Crawford's relatives of the accident, he was asked straight off: "When did Clinton get out?" "Get out of where?" "Why Clinton's been in Moyamensing prison."

On Tuesday Crawford leaped to freedom from the roof of a building adjoining the 20-foot prison wall. He had been serving a term for assault.

When police requested Crawford he admitted to Detective Sgt. Anthony Franchetti that the auto accident story was untrue and that he had been injured in the jump. He was returned to prison.

though Turkey's own steel production from two small converters is only 150,000 tons a year. Copper and chrome exports are also being stepped up.

In spite of all the progress that Turkey has made with Marshall Plan assistance, present estimates are that Turkey will not be self-supporting by next year. The budget deficit is estimated at over $175 million. The principal reason is that Turkey is spending over half of its budget of $800 million a year on military defense. And with this outlay, it can't break even.

Floating Paratrooper Saves Falling Buddy As Chute Collapses

FORT BENNING, Ga. — (AP) — A young paratrooper, floating to earth after a 90-man drop, grabbed the suspension lines of a deflated chute and saved a buddy's life yesterday.

When his parachute collapsed, Pfc. James R. Fernandez of Providence, R. I., plunged head first toward the earth.

Frank Elliott, 21-year-old private first class from Coates, N. C., saw his buddy's plight and reached out for the suspension lines in a quick, quiet rescue 500 feet above ground.

Both soldiers landed on Elliott's chute. Fernandez, 20, sought to use his auxiliary chute but it failed to open until about 40 feet from the ground.

More than 80 mayors from throughout the United States witnessed the spectacular rescue.

Woolworth Estate Shrinks 14 Million

SCRANTON, Pa. — (AP) — Taxes and depreciation in five years have pared almost $14,000,000 from the estate of the late five and ten magnate, Charles S. Woolworth, a court audit revealed.

The audit, filed in Lackawanna county orphans court, shows federal inheritance taxes on the $16,417,594 estate of the Woolworth co-founder added up to more than $8,000,000. Pennsylvania's share totaled $1,774,774.

Depreciation leaves the net estate worth $2,513,864 at present, according to the audit.

A large part of Woolworth's fortune was left to two children, Mrs. Ethel A. Huber, Scranton, and Richard Woolworth, Salem Center, N. Y., part of it consisted of 194,614 shares of Woolworth Co. stock worth $8,368,445 when he died.

Woolworth's will also set up a $500,000 trust fund for another son, Fred E. Woolworth, of West Chester, Pa.

It pays to get the best! Most people know that. But some, when they come to choosing the heating system that must serve them for years, hesitate about Timken Silent Automatic—for one reason. It costs a little more.

To those people we say, look ahead ten years. The amount of fuel oil and electricity your Timken Silent Automatic Wall-Flame Oil Burner will use over that time will probably be 25% less than an ordinary gun-type burner will use. Maintenance costs will be much lower, too, because the only moving part in the entire burner is the self-lubricating mono-rotor. All this, plus the proud knowledge that you have the best in advance-designed heating equipment, puts you far ahead of the shortsighted man who accepts less than a Timken Silent Automatic.

Grant Charter To Civics Club

Good Citizenship Promoted By Unit

The All Saints Civics Club of All Saints Parochial school has received its official charter from the Commission on American Citizenship in Washington, D. C.

At a recent meeting members of the eighth grade voted to organize their own unit of the club. Officers elected are James Keldsen, president; Jeanette Krout, vice president; Claire VanDamme, recording secretary; Joan LaLonde, corresponding secretary and Thomas Nebel, sergeant-at-arms.

The All Saints Civics club is one of the more than 1400 Catholic Civics clubs chartered in the United States last year. Sponsored by the Commission on American Citizenship of the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., these clubs foster training for good citizenship in parochial, junior high schools throughout the nation. Through monthly projects on a community level, these young citizens learn in a concrete way the meaning of Christian social living based on principles of justice and charity.

This year the Commission on American Citizenship has set up for Civics Club members a program of study and action under the general heading, "Your Community." Centered around the vital human rights theme developed at the 1951 convention of the National Catholic Educational Association, the program includes such topics as local government, industry, transportation, religion, communications, education, and recreation. The year's activities will conclude with observance of "I Am An American Day" in May.

Primitive Tribe Is Discovered By Dutch

DARWIN—(AP)—A completely walled-in village inhabited by primitive tribesmen, who had never seen a white man before, has been discovered by a Dutch patrol deep in the Dutch New Guinea jungle.

The story of the discovery was told by the Chief Justice of Dutch New Guinea, Dr. Bernard Damen, who visited Darwin recently. Dr. Damen said the village had been built into a fortress against hostile tribesmen, and the patrolmen had to crawl singly through a small hole in the wall.

The astonished tribesmen advanced on them in a threatening manner with spears and bows and arrows. Patrol-leader Den Haan calmed the villagers by singing them some native peace songs, and then gradually won their confidence by giving them presents.

In This Corner

With Roy Crandall

On the eve of the high school basketball season we have an interesting report from our downstate spy on football . . . The word is that a prep griddier from this area is getting a lot of attention from the various all-state boards . . . Nothing definite yet, and no names mentioned, but something's cooking.

Speaking of football, do you remember all those years when Ed Neal, the original man mountain and regarded as the strongest man in professional football, played with the Green Bay Packers . . . Neal will be facing his former mates Sunday in the Windy City when the Bears and Packers tangle . . . Packer Halfback Dom Moselle, secured this season in a deal with the Cleveland Browns, is quite well known in the U. P. . . . He played high school football at Hurley and put four years in at Superior State Teachers college.

The Packers, by the way, will wrap homecoming festivities around their fracas in Green Bay Dec. 2 with the New York Yanks . . . It'll probably be a "hot" time in a "cold" town by then . . . The welcome mat will be rolled out for the gridiron stars of yesteryear.

Menominee's Billy Wells ranks fourth in rushing yardage for the Michigan State Spartans with 260 yards in 34 carries for a 7.65 average . . . He has scored two touchdowns, one on a pass play, and has completed one of three aeriels thrown.

Duncan McDonald, highly publicized Michigan high school quarterback who entered the University of Michigan instead of West Point this fall, has thrown 11 passes and completed five for the Wolverines this season . . . His brother, Andy McDonald, leads the nation's college passers at Central Michigan College where he has completed 93 of 149 throws . . . In seven games he has passed for 1,292 yards and nine touchdowns.

Crippled Packers Take On Chicago Bears In NFL Tilt

CHICAGO, Ill.—The Green Bay Packers will be out to score their first victory over the Chicago Bears in Wrigley Field since 1941 when the traditional rivals collide in a National Football League Game here Sunday afternoon. Kickoff is set for 1:30.

Buckeye Grads Open Fund For Ailing Thorpe

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Ohio State's 1916-17 football teams met last night, talked over old times, and then decided to lead a campaign for an old-time football player none of them had ever faced.

The ancient Bucks adopted a resolution that something should be done to enhance the financial status of Jim Thorpe, the old Carlisle and professional Indian star who was released yesterday from Lankenau hospital in Philadelphia following an operation for a lip cancer.

George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues (the minors), led the way.

"Jim Thorpe is broke," Trautman said. "He's probably the greatest athlete this country ever produced. We should do something for him."

Fund Starts

"I'd like to suggest that every person who ever saw Jim play—and who got a kick out of watching him play—contribute a dollar to a fund to get him back on his feet."

And reaching into his pocket, Trautman said:

"Here's the first dollar."

The Ohio State veterans chipped right in, and soon Trautman was holding $30 in his hand. Later, at a press party on the eve of the Illinois-Ohio State game, Trautman broached the idea again. Another $40 was tossed into Trautman's lap by the scribes.

"This could really be something," Trautman said. "If all the folks who saw Jim play would chip in a buck, we'd really have a fund. But who should we name to handle the contributions?"

The response was unanimous.

George M. Trautman, president, National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, 720 East Broad St., Columbus, O., will accept the dollar donations—and see that Thorpe, outstanding athlete of the first half-century, is handed the purse.

Role Takes Over

With Thomason ailing, veteran quarterback Tobin Rote will handle most of the Bay offense against the Bears Johnny Lujack. Both Rote and Lujack like to run, though both are chiefly pass throwers.

The Bears big gun is John Dettley, the powerful rookie fullback, who has been making the "T" work. The Packers' main threat is Bob Mann, swift pass receiver who already has caught eight touchdowns throws.

A crowd of nearly 45,000 is expected to watch the game and nearly 2,000 fans will be coming down from Green Bay.

Bradford Draft Status Is Mixup

TROY, O.—(AP)—The draft status of little Wes Bradford, 155-pound scabcat on the University of Michigan football team, apparently is all muddled up again.

Bradford originally was scheduled to be inducted into the Army in October, by the draft board here. But he requested that his case be transferred to the board of Ann Arbor, Mich.

His request was granted, under Selective Service rules, and the Michigan board then notified the Troy board that Bradford would be inducted on Nov. 29, date of its next induction call.

The date, however, is five days after Michigan and Ohio State meet in the season football finale at Ann Arbor. Bradford is regu-

Hermansville, Nahma, Rapid Cop Cage Wins

Upper Peninsula Central D-E basketball opened last night with Rapid River edging Perkins 53-49 and Nahma measuring Cooks 56-30 while Hermansville slipped a 29-28 loss to Bark River in a non-conference tilt.

With Cornelius Sochay in a sharp feeding role, Nahma's Paul Thibault whipped 24 points through the hoop to pace Coach Harold Anderson's quintet to its opening win. Lawrence Seymour contributed 17 points for the winners while Murray was high for Cooks with 11.

Come From Behind

Rapid River came from behind to nudge Perkins in the second half. Sixteen points in the third period and eighteen in the fourth provided the margin of victory.

Spartans Cop First Big Ten Trophy In Cross Country Run

CHICAGO — (P)—The Big Ten's newest member—Michigan State — today claimed its first conference trophy in the cross country event.

The Spartans, making use of team strength, dethroned Wisconsin in the four mile run in Washington park here Friday. They scored 49 points to 62 for Wisconsin. (Low score wins).

Walt Deike of the Badger squad took first place, in 21 minutes, 12.3 seconds. Dick Kepford was high for the Spartans, finishing fourth. The title last year was taken by Michigan's Don McEwen, out now with a foot injury. Other Spartans placed fifth, ninth, 15 and 16th.

Michigan was third in the meet with 77 points.

In the companion central collegiate conference meet, Notre Dame took first place and Michigan Normal was second. Normal's Ed Aylmer was just beaten for individual honors by Bob Kelly of Loyola.

Sixteen Injured

The Packers 16-14 victory over the Bears here in '41 ranks as one of the all-time upsets in pro football. The Bears entered the game unbeaten and had downed the Packers in Green Bay earlier in the season.

What chance the Packers had of defeating the Bears, however, was all but lost in the Pittsburgh game last Sunday when the Steelers crippled sixteen Packers. Three of them were X-ray cases—Quarterback Bob Thomason, Halfback Billy Grimes and Guard Buddy Burris. Grimes may not play at all while Thomason and Burris will see limited action.

Ironically, the Bears will be stronger for the game than they were in the 41-28 loss to the Detroit Lions last Sunday. Whizzer White, the Walker-type halfback, has returned to activity after a three-week absence. So will Al Campana, veteran halfback, who gave the Packers trouble last year.

Michigan State Needs Quarterback Next Year

EAST LANSING — (P)—Don't be surprised if Michigan State drops down from its No. 1 position in the Associated Press football poll before this season is over.

The reason? Coach Biggie Munn has to find himself a quarterback for next year.

The sports writers who vote in the poll are likely to be fickle, especially if Michigan State doesn't win those next two by a half dozen or more touchdowns.

Has To Build

Munn has repeatedly said he's more interested in winning ball games than in how his team stands in the national ratings. He has to build for next year and the year after that—the first season the Spartans will be eligible for a shot at the Rose bowl.

The only senior graduating from the backfield this year will be Quarterback Al Dorow of Inlay City, the key man in the MSC offense. Munn has backs to burn in other positions but only Dorow as an experienced, first string quarterback.

Dorow proved himself a great field general against Notre Dame. He's the leading ground-gainer on the team with 770 yards in total offense, 706 yards of the total on his 54 pass completions in 93 tries.

But it takes more than a good passer to direct Michigan State's intricate offense. Michigan State uses the split T, the winged T, the single wing and the double wing with variations on all of them.

Tough Openers

Replacing Dorow will be Munn's major headache next year especially since the Spartans open against Michigan with Oregon State and Texas A. & M. providing the opposition on successive weekends.

Heir apparent to take over Dorow's job is Tom Yewic, the 19-year-old sophomore punter from Conemaugh, Pa. Yewic has been untruffled and steady in game competition.

Yewic's total offense this year is five plays—four passes and one carry. He'll need game seasoning and experience before he could be expected to take over—especially with 100,000 frenzied fans due to witness his debut next year at Ann Arbor.

Munn has already indicated his likely strategy for the rest of the year. He's been paying special attention to working with the "pony" backfield as a unit in practice this week.

Yewic has been calling signals

Coach Paul Wiinikainen's Bronco's had led by a single point in the closing minute of the game at Hermansville before Tomasi dropped the clincher. It was a see-saw battle throughout, with both teams a little ragged, and the lead exchanged hands a number of times. Tomasi was high for the night with 13 points.

Grooming Yewic

In most of the games Dorow has been called upon to steady and direct the young "pony" backs. Yewic apparently is being groomed to assume more and more responsibility.

It's a good guess that as soon as Michigan State has a fairly safe margin in the two remaining games Dorow will be rested and Yewic will take over.

This may mean a smaller margin of victory for Michigan State. And the selectors, many of whom go only by scores, may cool off on the Spartans when they cast their votes on the popularity polls.

But Yewic will be around again next year. He'll be a senior when Michigan State makes its 1953 Rose bowl bid.

It would be smart strategy for Munn to aim for future roses rather than try to grab a few more of today's posies.

Anti-Bowl

Southern conference presidents voted 13-1, with three schools abstaining last September, to direct their representatives to "vote (at the December meeting) against giving permission to any member institution to participate in a bowl game this year."

Conference bylaws provide that "no postseason football games will be permitted, except by the consent of the conference." However, there is no penalty provided for violation of the rule.

Maryland president Dr. H. C. Byrd said he accepted the invitation without first asking permission of conference members. He said he followed the "pattern of past procedures."

Dr. Byrd would not directly answer what course of action Maryland would take if Southern conference members refused to grant the Terrapins permission. He said "I would expect them to approve our request."

Commissioner Surprised

Conference Commissioner Wallace Wade said he was "surprised" that Maryland had accepted the bid without first consulting other members.

Yankee Pitcher Reynolds Aids Sick Youngster

ANDOVER, Kas.—(P)—Allie Reynolds made one of the most important appearances of his career here last night.

The famed pitcher of the world's champion New York Yankees, one of two men ever to pitch two no-hitters in a single season, thrilled nearly 1,000 Andover townspeople at a "Terry McGraw Benefit Fund" party in the Andover school gymnasium.

Three-year-old Terry McGraw is seriously ill in St. Francis hospital at Wichita, suffering from a brain disease. He has been in a coma since Aug. 17. His father, John McGraw, of Wichita, is superintendent of schools at Andover, and was a classmate of Reynolds at Oklahoma A. & M. college.

The boy was stricken Aug. 15 while he and his parents were in Oklahoma City. Two days later he lapsed into a coma, and, after a month in Mercy hospital at Oklahoma City, he was brought to Wichita and St. Francis hospital.

Reynolds told the audience of some of his experiences as pitcher, and presented a baseball, autographed by all the Yankees, which was auctioned off.

Grid Games Today Have Bearing On Bowl Bids

NEW YORK—(P)—The college football season rushed toward a climax today with at least three games having a distinct bearing on Jan. 1 bowl bids.

But Tennessee and Maryland—each of which faces a soft opponent—will take the field with light hearts. They've already been invited to the Sugar bowl. So will Georgia Tech, which will play in the Orange bowl.

Big Ones

So the big ones today involved Stanford, Illinois and, to a lesser extent, Texas Christian. Stanford and Illinois have been bowling over all opposition in their wild runs toward the coveted Rose bowl. Texas Christian, while it doesn't boast as impressive a record as the others, stands a good chance of winning the Southwest conference crown and going to the Cotton bowl.

Stanford has no easy time in Oregon State, which lost a 6-0 decision to Michigan State early in the season, then was nipped by Southern California by two points. State is a young squad and has been coming along fast. But nevertheless, the Indians are two touchdown favorites.

The same holds true for the Illini, who meet Ohio State in the top contest of the Big Ten. If they win, they'll clinch at least a tie for the crown. But Ohio State, too, poses a problem that cannot be shrugged off. The Buckeyes have been a disappointment all season, but it could be that they're primed for this one.

Texas Tilt

Texas Christian hopes to get past Texas, and in so doing hold its favorite's role of becoming the Cotton bowl host. If the game had been played a couple of weeks ago, Texas would have loomed a pretty solid favorite. But the Southwest conference fluctuates from week to week to such a degree that it's pointless to speculate.

Tennessee, No. 1 in the weekly Associated Press poll until ferocious Michigan State took over, goes against Mississippi in a game that should do nothing more than give Gen. Neyland's boys a good workout.

Maryland will entertain North Carolina State, while Coach Jim Tatum and other Terrapin officials are wondering what to do if the Southern conference decides to ban bowl games at its meeting Dec. 14. Maryland, in effect, told the conference it would play in the Sugar bowl no matter what action was taken, although Coach Tatum and the athletic council said they were breaking no rules.

Uncle Retires In Favor Of Nephew

CHICAGO—(P)—Roy Conacher has cried "uncle"—and his nephew, Peter Conacher, replaces him with the Chicago Blackhawks hockey team.

Roy Conacher, 25-year-old member of Canada's great hockey clan, will retire voluntarily to make room for his 19-year-old nephew, Peter, a left winger. Peter was signed from the amateur ranks and will make his debut with the last-place Hawks in Sunday's game with the Toronto Maple Leafs in Chicago stadium.

Roy has scored two goals this season to boost his total in the National Hockey League to 226. Only 19 players have topped 200 goals in the game's history.

Charley Conacher, Peter's father, managed the Hawks during the 1948-49 and 1949-50 seasons. He now scouts for the Hawks.

Peter played for Galt in the Ontario Hockey Association this year and collected 13 goals and 14 assists in 14 games.

Maryland And Tennessee To Meet In Sugar Bowl Classic

NEW ORLEANS—(P)—Maryland will meet Tennessee in the Sugar bowl football classic here New Year's day—with or without the Southern conference's approval.

The Sugar bowl announced last night that Tennessee, ranked No. 2 in the Associated Press' weekly poll, and Maryland, the No. 5 team, had accepted invitations.

Both elevens are undefeated, untied, and many experts claim untested.

Maryland accepted the bid to the Jan. 1 game in the face of an anticipated Southern conference ban on postseason games when conference presidents meet on Dec. 14.

DeMarco Beats Young Chavez In 10 Rounds

NEW YORK — (AP) — If you thought Paddy DeMarco was rough with Eddie Chavez last night in Madison Square Garden wait until he fights Sandy Saddler, the featherweight champ, Dec. 7 at the Garden.

You TV fans ain't seen nothing yet. Bully boy DeMarco and Saddler, who still is serving a suspension for his "wrestling" match with Willie Pep, are liable to throw the rule book out the window.

DeMarco bullied 20-year-old Chavez of San Jose, Calif. and wore him down with body blows last night to win a unanimous 10-round decision.

Winner Boosed

Only 2,721 fans who paid $9.000 turned up for the battle. They booed Paddy for some borderline body blows and a little rough stuff in the clinches.

Paddy controlled the battle with his aggressive tactics. Referee Mark Conn had it 9-1. Judge Art Aidala 8-2 and Judge Bill Healy 7-3. The AP card agreed with Aidala.

Saddler is next in line for DeMarco. Then he wants lightweight champ Jimmy Carter and no over-the-weight match.

"I want a title shot," said Paddy. "And even if I have to disagree with my manager for the first time I won't fight over-the-weight."

DeMarco weighed 138½ and Chavez 139½.

Valparaiso Drubs Hillsdale, 54-0

ST. JOSEPH, Mich. — (AP) — Snowflakes and scores came with almost equal rapidity as the Valparaiso Crusaders buried Hillsdale college under an avalanche of touchdowns in a storm here last night. The score was 54-0.

The victory was the ninth of the season for the invading Indians and their 21st in a row in regular season play. It was the sixth setback for the Dales in eight games.

Valparaiso considerably outstripped its average of 34 points a game.

It was virtually no contest from beginning to end. Hillsdale never getting closer to a touchdown than the Valparaiso 44, even though the Crusaders played every substitute they brought.

The Indians got 412 yards rushing and completed 7 of 21 passes for 79 yards. The Dales got 83 yards rushing and completed 5 of 29 passes for 36 more. Valparaiso got 25 first downs to 6 for Hillsdale.

Of Hillsdale's six first downs one came on a penalty, four on rushes and one on a pass.

DETROIT — (AP) — One of bowling's hottest rivalries, between the E & B and Strohs teams, gets going again here today. The two squads will fight it out or the world match-game championship. Blocks in the match will be held at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. today and Sunday, with the E & B's seeking to retain the crown they won on 1949. The finals in the match will be next weekend.

In a previous match game session, last March, the Strohs, headed by Buzz Fazio, were trimmed by Lou Sielaff's E & B bunch by 365 pins. The Strohs won elimination rounds again this fall.

One newcomer will play on each team. Billy Williams replaces Chuck O'Donnell in the E & B lineup, while Johnny Crimmins takes over for Ed Easter with the Strohs.

A note delivered to the state department yesterday said the two ships—the North Wind and the West Wind—will leave an unnamed Soviet port for Bremerhaven, Germany, this month.

A third icebreaker, the South Wind, loaned to Russia during World War II was returned to American authorities in Japan two years ago. Moscow said then that the other two were stuck in the Arctic ice.

Lucky Escape Made By Trapped Driver

MINOT, N. D. — (AP) — A motorist, Ray Etzler, pinned beneath his overturned truck, jacked up and freed himself all by his lonesome. The Butte, N. D., man was driving with his wife and small daughter when the truck overturned on a slippery road. Etzler was thrown from the machine and pinned under the overturned truck.

Etzler managed to get a hand free and reached the jack carried in the truck. With his one free hand, he carefully jacked the machine off his body high enough to allow him to escape. He then freed his wife and daughter.

Prisoners Approve Jail Sentences

ANTWERP — (AP) — "Hearty thanks, Mr. Judge," the prisoner said as he was being sentenced to six months' jail for stealing goods in a railway station in Antwerp. He had already totalled about fifteen years' prison for various thefts.

Another man seemed also to approve the sentence of six months' prison and $52 fine given to him by another Antwerp court for stealing $4,000 from a company he was working for.

"This small sentence will enable me to reimburse the money," he said quietly bowing to the court president.

HEIR-APPARENT — Every inch the diplomat is Anthony Eden, deputy prime minister and foreign secretary in the new Churchill government, seen reporting to the Foreign Office in London shortly after taking office. Eden, Churchill's foreign secretary in World War II, is regarded as the man who would head the Conservative Party if Churchill should step down for reasons of health or age.

tative cease-fire line along the present battle front. But he made it clear the line will become permanent only if all other armistice terms are agreed upon within 30 days after the proposal is accepted by the full five-member armistice delegations.

If no armistice is signed before the deadline, then a new cease-fire line would have to be fixed, Hodes said.

Communists May Agree

"We don't see any reason why the Communists wouldn't accept the latest U. N. proposal to settle the buffer zone issue," said Lt. Col. Howard S. Levis, official U. N. command spokesman. "We made it in all sincerity and with the expectation that it would be accepted."

He said the immediate Communist reply came "much faster than we would have expected."

After Lee indicated the Reds might agree to the U. N. proposal, Hodes suggested that staff officers of both sides meet at 19 a. m. Sunday to start working out the line of battle contact which would become the tentative cease-fire line.

Lee did not respond to the 10 a. m. meeting suggestion but replied: "I have received your proposal in writing and heard your explanation. Since we have yet to make a full study of your proposal I cannot answer. But I will give you our comment on your proposal tomorrow."

Fighting May Ease Off

The United Nations plan demands clear-cut assurance from the Reds that agreement on the tentative cease-fire line would not be an end to the shooting before a full armistice is signed.

"There is no question of a de facto cease-fire," Levis said. "It will amount to ground, sea and air action to the extent determined by General Ridgway and his ground, sea and air commanders."

No one in official position at this advance U. N. command base would suggest that agreement on the Allied buffer zone proposal would mean an immediate halt in the ground fighting.

However, there was speculation that action would be reduced to patrol activity while the negotiators are trying to reach an agreement on the full armistice.

Any one of the remaining items on the agenda could block a final agreement.

Still to be settled are such thorny problems as the exchange of war prisoners, arrangements to assure that the armistice is not violated and recommendations to the respective governments.

Buying Rash Boosts October Booze Sales

LANSING — (AP) — A buying rush before higher federal taxes boosted Michigan's liquor sales, the state liquor control commission reported.

Sales in October amounted to $11,887,705, compared to $10,620,700 in the same month of the preceding year.

Mostly due to inflated prices, the sales of liquor by the state's monopoly so far this year have reached $108,899,411, compared to $98,860,511 for the same period last year.

Bomber Blown Up By Distress Flare; Three Fliers Dead

AURORA, W. Va. — A twin-engine air force bomber fighting through fog and snow apparently caught fire from one of its own distress flares late yesterday and blew up.

Bodies of two of the three air force fliers aboard were found soon afterward. State police and civil air patrolmen were joined by some 1,000 nearby residents in searching this mountainous area for the third flier early today.

The crash near this northern West Virginia town was the third B-26 mishap in the past 10 days involving men from Langley air force base, Va. Three were killed last Thursday in an attempted landing at the base and two died Nov. 5.

Veterans To Build 65 Igloo Bomb Shelter Recreation Centers

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars are planning to build 65 igloo-shaped atom bomb proof recreation centers in New York City. Each structure could house 12,000 in an emergency.

John P. O'Connell, VFW New York Council Commander, said yesterday the buildings will be financed by private capital as a VFW community service project. The first one will be completed by next September, he said.

O'Connell declared $750,000 is on hand for the first structure. He said VFW posts and other community organizations will be able to use the centers for recreation and social purposes.

Michigan's State Police Get Raise

ate of the total cost of his plan, but that the main item, the across the board increase, would cost some $13,500,000 a year.

The commission last December approved a state-wide pay boost costing $7,500,000.

New Scale Outlined

Louis Segadelli, field representative for the United Public Workers, asked a $500 a year increase across the board and a minimum state salary of $3,000 a year.

The Michigan State Employees' association was represented by president Martin L. Leacock, who said "the present inflationary period is 'the salaried man's depression.'"

Without asking for a set amount of increase, Leacock proposed a whole new salary scale. Starting with the commodity price index and the state salary scale on July 1, 1946, he would increase state salaries the percentage of the commodity increase to Oct. 1, 1951.

In the future, the wage scale would be adjusted every six months or every time the commodity index changed three per cent.

He asked $20 a month for institutional employees to compensate for increased maintenance.

Morale Suffers

No detailed demand for increases was made by Gerald Fitzgerald, regional director of the CIO government and civic employees. He commented, however, that AFL demands for a $2,600 annual minimum were too low.

Pleas for increased salaries from the management side were made by J. E. Burnett, business executive of the Ypsilanti state hospital, and Ernest B. Huff, personnel director of the mental health department. They said pay raises were necessary to cut down the present heavy turnover in state service and to increase efficiency.

State controller Robert F. Steadman asked that any but straight across the board pay raises be anticipated by the commission so they could be included in the budget submitted to the legislature in January.

The state police pay increase was appealed for strongly by state police commissioner Donald S. Leonard. Morale has been high, he said, but it "has suffered because of low pay."

More For Recruits

The schedule of increases, worked out in detail by Rasch and Leonard, provides:

1. Creation of a new class of recruits for the first year of service with a starting salary of $200 a month, $220 a month after six or eight weeks, and $240 a month after six months. The recruit class now gets $150 a month for the six or eight weeks, and then the beginning salary of $180 a month for troopers.

2. A salary range of $225 to $315 a month for troopers after the recruit year. The present range is $220 to $270.

3. Establishment of a special pay scale for corporals and extension of salary ranges to four years as is done for other state employees. This would subordinate officers about $25 a month, $55 a month for corporals and sergeants at the maximum, $75 a month for lieutenants and $60, to $120 a month for captains.

Infamous Fugitive, Lone Wolf Burglar, Captured In Denver

DENVER — (AP) — One of the nation's major fugitives, Raymond E. Young, 39, wanted in Los Angeles, was arrested in Denver early today.

George Burton, special agent in charge of the Denver FBI office, said Young was arrested on a Federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. He is wanted in Los Angeles on a warrant charging burglary and assault with a deadly weapon on Aug. 31, 1948.

Burton said Young was arrested without incident at a bakery where he worked nights loading loaves of bread on trucks.

He had escaped from California State prison at Soledad when he and several other prisoners were sent to help fight a forest fire.

A few days later, on Oct. 26, he struck and shot a police officer in the leg while being questioned.

Young is a native of Lincoln, Neb. He is 39 years old.

The FBI Monday identified him as a "lone wolf" house burglar, who had been in prison for theft many times.
